PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

On this the ___ day of _______________, 2016, came to be considered Plaintiff Cameron International Corporation's ("Cameron" or "Plaintiff") Motion for Preliminary Injunction. After considering Plaintiff's Motion, Plaintiff's Memorandum in Support thereof, the response, if any, arguments of counsel, and evidence presented, the Court finds that Plaintiff's Motion should, in all things, be GRANTED.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that Defendant Steve Abbiss, and all other persons acting in concert with him, is restrained and enjoined from the following until the conclusion of the trial of this matter:

- Using or disclosing Cameron's Confidential Information and Trade Secrets. For purposes of this Temporary Restraining Order, Cameron's Confidential Information and Trade Secrets includes technical, product, service, business, financial, and customer information that Abbiss was provided or had access to during the course and scope of his employment with Cameron that has not been disclosed by Cameron to the general public, including Cameron's margins, pricing, cost information, financial data, business strategies, target customers, competitor research, and new product development information;

- Directly or indirectly participating in any bid or tender for surface systems products, services, or technologies in the Middle East (Oman, Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, Qatar, Iraq, and Iran);

- Rendering any services to FMC or a competitor of Cameron, or engaging directly or indirectly in any business that is competitive with Cameron in the Middle East (Oman, Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, Qatar, Iraq, and Iran);

- Directly or indirectly soliciting Surface Systems business of any customer of Cameron in the Middle East (Oman, Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, Qatar, Iraq, and Iran); and,

- Directly or indirectly soliciting, interfering, inducing, or attempting to cause any employee of Cameron to leave his or her employment.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendant FMC Technologies Singapore Pte. Ltd., and all other persons acting in concert with it, is restrained and enjoined from engaging in any act until the conclusion of the trial of this matter that causes Abbiss to violate the terms of this Order.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that trial is set for ________________________, ________.

SO ORDERED.
